

PAMELA LINHARES

Hello!

My name is Pamela Linhares. I am currently on my final year of Business Management at the Guildhall Faculty of Business and Law, and I would like to represent LondonMet as a delegate at NUS Conferences this year.

Throughout my three years of university life I have been involved in many events, workshops, seminars, conferences led by the student movement. I have also worked closely with the Students Union which gave me an insight on how things work and what can be improved. In the past year I have been a StAR, President of the Green Society, Success Coach as a part of the Pass Scheme, as well being part of a world wide body with the society called Students Organising for Sustainability (SOS).

Vote for me and I will address the following issues:

- Affordable housing and accommodation: According to Addleshaw Goddard Law Firm £6bn were invested in student accommodation last year in the UK, more than in North America! Investors are attracted by high income return and growing demand, which is why an average student has to juggle with full time education and three part-time jobs to survive in London. We cannot let this “sink in” as a normal situation.
- Promoting Sustainability and Corporate Social Responsibility as integrated part of all Business Courses: Academic education shapes your personality and influences all the decisions you make, so I believe that high ethical standards are a must to create sustainable communities and businesses. This is the base for a better future.
- Campaigning against racism and creating a much more inclusive student movement. All students seek successful careers, we cannot be divided because of cultural differences, embrace diversity as privilege of living in one of the most multicultural cities in the World, learn from it and use it to make a positive impact.

Vote for Pam, there's more in LondonMet than just exams.
