

AMUNDALA MULOLWA

EXPERIENCE: As an MSc international Peace and conflict study student, who is already an active part of the London Met's student life by acting as a STAR and Success Coach, I believe I have a unique insight into being a London Met student. Further involvement in universities activities will only be an other positive contribution in improving the students' life while studying at London met by making your voice, as students heard.

POLICIES:

In this period, when our university is going through substantial transformations, mainly by opting to concentrate all its branches at the Building tower, Holloway road; with the time already spent here and experience gained through my services as a STAR and Success coach, I will ensure:

*The students' academic experience is constantly improved, serving as an adequate bridge between students and the universities' personnel.

*Standardised feedback across departments: Having to Teaching and learning entities, I will ensure there is a consistency with both quantitative and qualitative feedback students receive as result from their requests or complaints.

*with the financial difficulties ever present, I will always support the Lobbing and demonstrations against education cuts and government policies making the lives of students harder than it is at the moment.

So for an inclusive, supportive London Met, Please, vote AMUNDALA MULOLWA
