

FLORENCE ONWUMERE

As a Life Science student and many of the students here at London Met, we worked hard and against the odds, we made it to university. I'm standing for the Faculty of Life Science and Computing Officer because students in this faculty need an officer who will put their issues first.

FLSC student have different needs and issues range from laboratory spaces, equipment, to library resources and preparing us for the working world. We need a union that responds and engages with its students on the core issues that affect their ability to do their best.

More student-teacher contact time

Interactions between students and their lecturers/PATs are very crucial from when we enrol until the final leg of our course. This time is vital for student in getting the academic and personal support. It is an opportunity to speak one to one on or progression. Elect me and I work towards more hours with their lecturers, module leaders, and personal tutors. I will work on a bimonthly Q&A session with members of the Faculty to help with module content feedback.

High standard facilities and up to date equipment

Students in FLSC require the best equipment which are in the best condition to learn effectively and produce work. We need adequate lab space, sports facilities and seminar rooms. Elect me and I will ensure that facilities kept to a high standard and equipment are up to date.

Mental and Sexual Health Support

We are good at promoting physical health however there is very little promotion when it comes to our mental and sexual health, which is part of our overall wellbeing.

Elect me and I will work to create accessible mental and sexual health workshops for students. I will ensure that existing services are promoted more to accessible for students. I will work on getting rid of the stigma attached to these areas, as it's a part students overall wellbeing

We need investment not cuts

Our University is a unique one in terms of diversity, by investing in our buildings and staff we attract more students. There are more Black students at our University than any other university in the country. It is important that we continue to make education accessible for all. However the decrease in university funding and the scrapping of grants for students will only lead to students struggling whilst in university it may stop some from coming at all.

Elect me and I will work with the University to provide more scholarships and hardship funds for students. I will work with the University to put students at the heart of recruitment.
